

Big Five Personality Test Results

Openness: 60%

Individuals with a score above 40 tend to be moderately open, appreciating new experiences while also valuing familiarity and structure.

Conscientiousness: NaN%

A score below 20 reflects a tendency towards disorganization and lack of follow-through. These individuals are often more relaxed about their responsibilities, may procrastinate, and are less likely to focus on long-term goals. They may prefer flexibility over structure.

Extraversion: 60%

A score above 40 reflects a more balanced approach to social interaction. These individuals are neither excessively introverted nor extroverted and enjoy socializing in moderation. They may sometimes prefer quieter, more intimate settings but are capable of engaging in larger social events when needed.

Agreeableness: 60%

A score above 40 reflects a moderate level of agreeableness. These individuals may be cooperative but are also more likely to stand their ground when needed. They are willing to help others but may not always go out of their way to avoid conflict or prioritize others' needs over their own.

Neuroticism: NaN%

A score below 20 reflects a high level of emotional stability. These individuals tend to stay calm and composed under pressure, rarely experiencing intense negative emotions. They are less likely to get anxious, stressed, or upset and are generally able to handle adversity with ease.
